Clare Holt

Quality Manager at Inotec AMD Ltd

July 1, 2020, Clare managed Elwyn directly

Elwyn is an excellent person to work with, he is logical and relentless in the search for a logical data driven answer. I would recommend Elwyn in an instant to anyone who wanted a clear thinking, data driven, individual who is capable of analysing a problem and reaching a statically valid conclusion. I would also recommend any of his training courses, they have been beyond benefit to myself and my team.

Ivan Perez Chamorro

CEO at MedBoard - Medical Devices Intelligence Platform & More

May 17, 2020, Ivan worked with Elwyn but at different companies

Elwyn has a great passion for quality and statistical processes, that combined with his many years of experience makes him a very top-level quality professional, with very solid quality principles and practical approach. In addition, his level of detail and methodical approach with tools allows teams to obtain very good data and insights for development and improvements

Kelly Reah

Senior Quality Assurance Associate at Inotec AMD

March 9, 2020, Elwyn worked with Kelly in the same group

I have had the pleasure of working with Elwyn within the medical devices sector. He has a wealth of knowledge on statistical analysis, PFMEA, Process Mapping, Quality Management Systems and Engineering. As such it has been an eye opening and invaluable experience for the whole team. I believe he is a valuable asset and contributor to any quality team

Philip Gravelle

Consultant at Gwalia Life Science Consulting Ltd

October 16, 2018, Elwyn worked with Philip in the same group

In my time collaborating with Elwyn, he showed a remarkable knowledge of the correct application of Statistical Process Control. His eye for detail enabled us to garner significantly greater information from process data and this facilitated improvements in control and yield. His background as a Chartered Quality Engineer was very evident. Furthermore, he was also humble enough to help out with more mundane tasks when the urgency on the project demanded. This was greatly appreciated.

Debra Hartley

Elwyn worked with us at our client partner as a quality representative. During his tenure he has demonstrated exceptionally ability to understand the ongoing process and bring in his experience and new ideas to setup a new quality process. The process was highly appreciated by the organization and implemented with success. Elwyn has a wonderful scale of experience which is highly valued in the quality engineering sector. Wish him a grand success in any future assignments he takes up.

Colleen Phythian

Elwyn impresses, with his direct, practical approach to QA he is capable of communication with and earning respect from both management and shop floor. Constantly he surprised me with practical instructions for the machine operators. Thorough analysis towards suppliers and a true professional in discussions with customers. He singlehanded found ways to significantly reduce scrap and optimize production runs. With a clear understanding between motivating and activating.

Ian Potter

Contract Quality Engineer at HP Chemie Pelzer (Retired)

Elwyn was my Manager for some months during 2013. I can say with honesty that he was one of the most respected and approachable Managers I have had the good fortune to meet. He was certainly the most academically qualified of any having attained all four of the Qualifications in the American Society for Quality and one of only a few to accomplish this. Elwyn leads by example and was supportive to me throughout our working relationship. Listening was a strength reinforced by tolerance. He exudes a professional demeanour, is assertive but not aggressive and appears to command respect with little effort. His depth of knowledge on multiple Quality Tools and techniques is admirable. We have worked well together to resolve technical issues establishing Root Causes and implementing Containment and Corrective actions. Elwyn is a Quality Professional and extremely competent and capable at the highest levels. I firmly believe that he would be an asset to any company and would in my opinion be part of the "intellectual capital ". He is also quite a modest man which is an endearing aspect of his character

Prem Murgiah

I worked with Elwyn at BT Cellnet at the start of its transformation into O2 UK and in most need of innovative problem-solving and a structured quality approach. Elwyn is a thought-leader in his field who is an impressive advocate of quality techniques. In my experience he has a unique ability to convey the full life cycle quality approach in a way that inspires middle and senior management and speaks to them in terms of compelling cost-benefits. At a personal level he is an open, supportive professional that I found a real pleasure to work with.

David Wilkinson

Elwyn, was seconded on occasions to support an in-house business turn around team (which I headed) with installing/ improving unit company quality systems and processes. Elwyn's input was always professional and his ability to turn behaviours around within short lead times was remarkable. I have no difficulty in recommending Elwyn to anyone wanting a pragmatic, professional approach, to using Quality Systems to improve company performance.

Prem Murgiah

Quality Manager at Howe Leather Pty Ltd
June 22, 2011, Prem was a client of Elwyn's

I have known Elwyn Lewis for almost 21 year, and my journey of success is linked to his expert ability to groom individuals and companies to perform at a level higher than the natural person or average mind. He has the ability to find value and add value through the demonstration of his knowledge and application of toolsets. It is with great regret that we lack the calibre of professionals such as Elwyn Lewis in industry, he is truly passionate to unleash potential. He has been a consultant in two companies that I have worked for, and he has been instrumental in setting the framework for the achievements of our accreditation as well as training on the effective use of statistical tools to aid in problem solving, realizing opportunity cost and promoting the mindset that we are all responsible for Quality. In my personal capacity I would recommend Elwyn Lewis, for your next challenge. Edward Deming "We have learned to live in a world of mistakes and defective products as if they were necessary to life. It is time to adopt a new philosophy in America."

Elwyn reported to me in my role as Chief Operating Officer for Pearson Assessments and Testing International. The group consisted of a number of large business units all of which had their own/varied quality systems. Elwyn worked to unify those systems, make them more robust, filling gaps where they existed working with co-workers and customers at the highest levels.

Elwyn's involvement during his period at T&N was in the main, within the High-tech Heat Exchanger/Radiator division. As a Tier 1 supplier to OEMs both locally, in South Africa, and internationally. Elwyn's responsibility, through the team reporting to him, was to install and maintain systems to satisfy the appropriate audits and accreditations as specified by the range of customers. Further Elwyn used his practical experience, in particular with regard to Statistical Techniques, Problem-Solving techniques and Reliability Engineering, to achieve significant improvements, which contributed very clearly to overall company performance. During Elwyn's time at T&N, I was responsible for turn-around projects within the T&N group and had the occasion to have Elwyn's input on some of the projects, that I was running in other divisions of the T&N group. I found his approach to be professional at all times. His approach achieved solid buy-in from the management and operators that he was advising, and as such produced effective and robust solutions.
